The Rebel

Walpole High School • Walpole, Massachusetts

Dedication

The Class of 1969 of Walpole High School proudly dedicates the 1969 Rebel Yearbook to Mrs. Joanne Spillane with fondness and gratitude. We recognize her talent as a French and Spanish teacher instructing us in the language, literature, and customs of French and Spanish-speaking countries, and her patience in listening to us struggle with oral expression in the language laboratory. But it is as our sincere and ever-encouraging class advisor that we will remember Mrs. Spillane, guiding us in the difficult task of planning the Junior Prom, urging us to support our class activities, and, on the afternoons of our Junior and Senior Class Dances, assisting us in the decoration of the entire gym. We will miss the reassuring smile, the support, and the patience of Mrs. Spillane at Walpole High and sincerely wish her happiness in the future.

To Mrs. Joanne Spillane

The Man of La Mancha,
Don Quixote, 1969,
is a rebel characterizing
the class of 1969.
Romantic, fearless, and undaunted
by the opposition,
this rebel keeps on dreaming
the impossible dream—of graduation.
Just as Don Quixote met and eventually overcame obstacles like the giants disguised as windmills, so the rebel of 1969 meets and overcomes obstacles like study, rules and regulations, and class dues.
Only the rebel class of 1969
would "run where the brave dare not go"
(across the street during sophomore year)
to prove its dissatisfaction with established standards.
The rebel athlete bears
"unbearable sorrow"
and keeps on reaching for the "unreachable star"
of success,
aided by the underclassman
who takes the role of Sancho Panza.
Like Don Quixote,
the rebel of Walpole High School, 1969,
never loses faith,
even when things go wrong,
and seems to retain the "spirit of the Rebel, '69":

I do not choose to be a common man.
It is my right to be uncommon if I can.
I seek opportunity—not security.
I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me.
I want to take the calculated risk, to dream and to build and to fail and to succeed.
I refuse to barter incentive for a dole.
I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence.
The thrill of fulfillment to the state calm of Utopia.
I will not trade freedom for beneficence, nor my dignity for a handout.
I will never cower before any master nor bend to any threat.
It is my heritage to stand erect, proud, and unafraid.
To think and act for myself.
To enjoy the benefits of my creation and to meet the world boldly and say—
THIS, I HAVE DONE!

Why does he batter at walls that won't break?
Why does he give when it's natural to take?

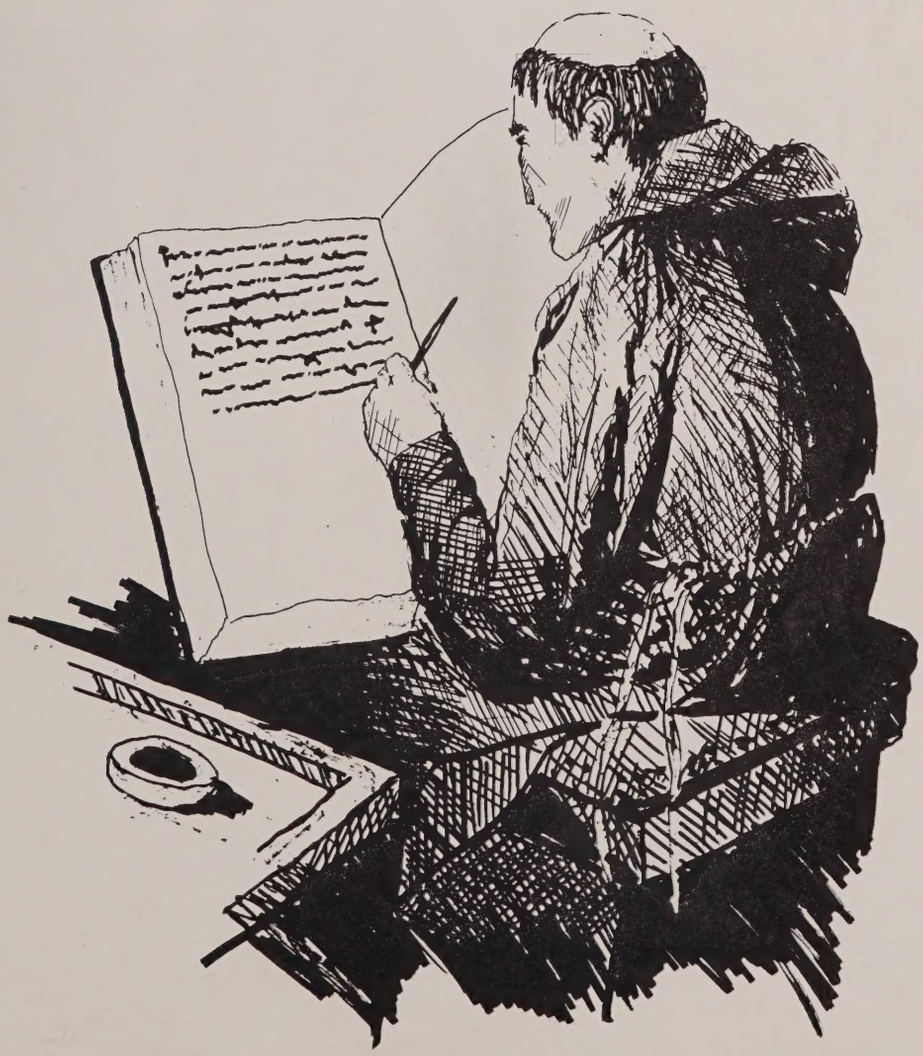
And what does he want of me?"



Administration Manages To

Behind the successful and smooth functioning of a school as large as Walpole High lies an efficient administration. Just as styles of teaching, learning, and dress change so do techniques of administration change. We are fortunate to possess an administration that has managed to "keep up with the times." Although they have been the subject of criticism they have been able to keep communications with the faculty and students open and free. They have showed a willingness to improve the school and to experiment with new ideas that have come from students and teachers. The Class of 1969 wishes to thank the administration for their guidance, support, and patience over the past four years and hopes that they will continue to strive for the excellence that they have always tried to promote.

Concerned With The Individual's Worth & Dignity

In small dark cubbyholes hidden behind the facade of the nurse's office or within a maze of numerous doors and rooms can be found the abodes of a small band who concern themselves totally with the needs of people and with every individual's worth and dignity. In addition to regular counseling services, our guidance department has conducted a follow-up study of last year's graduates as a means of evaluating our high school preparation. Recently the evaluators handed one of three commendations to the counselors for their backgrounds in guidance. To maintain the best services for our students, a fourth counselor will be hired next year. Now we must begin the search for a new cubbyhole.

Business: The Basis of Our Economy

Mr. Joseph Barnes

Mr. Raymond Valaitis, Head of Department

It's common knowledge that business is the basis of our economy, and thus it is reassuring to know that Walpole High School is doing its part to keep our economy "booming" in the future. Every year our school turns out more and more trained stenographers, secretaries, and future accountants, who upon leaving school take their places in the foundation of our nation's economic strength.

Mrs. Eleanor Shaer

Miss Diane Gallant

During their preparatory period at Walpole High, the future business leaders of the world became acquainted with such new areas of study as social security laws, new methods of accounting and data processing. Above all, however, the business department places great stress on teaching the student the perplexing intricacies of spelling and speech. With such training behind them, no problem which they may confront in their future careers in business can possibly be too "big" to solve.

Ultimate Goal: No Teachers

Mr. Arthur Hull, Head of Department

Mrs. Susan Lint

The ultimate goal of the English Department is to bring students to a state where they are no longer in need of a teacher and they can teach themselves. So sayeth Mr. Hull, the illustrious head of a dynamic department. Initiated: one creative writing course, Science Research Association overhead teaching in the general courses, speech classes, and next year hopefully will bring a public speaking course.

Often frustrated English teachers turn to SPOKE, a cooperative program where various high schools in the area contribute adio-visual equipment to a central pool which is available to everyone.

The study of Shakespearean drama has been augmented by annual spring presentations of such plays as the Taming of the Shrew and Romeo and Juliet at the Theater-in-the-Round in Beverly.

Communication Between Countries

Miss Charlotte Cole

Miss Dagny Soderberg

Miss Vivian Powers

Amid a tangled mass of recording tapes and a number of records scattered about his private headquarters in the Language Laboratory, we find the conscientious, ambitious Peter Paglari, head ot the Language Department, hard at work, planning the next strategy in the battle for better communication between countries. To aid in solving this dilemma, Mr. Paglari and his faithful co-workers strive to bridge the gap between the continents and break down the barriers that restrain our communicating effectively with other peoples.

Included in this program are the in-depth studies of other nations' customs, art and culture, in addition to mastery of conversation. In reaching this goal, many steps have been taken thus far in the project. For instance, last summer a group of German students traveled and studied in a quaint village located in the Bavaria region of Germany. Through their wide variety of experiences, they gained a greater understanding of another culture. This same group has recently befriended a German-born inmate at Walpole State Prison and makes frequent visitations there.

This coming summer other projects are already underway to send groups to Spain and Mexico to broaden their horizons. In addition, a proposed exchange program between some French students of our town and those of a small French community is in the planning stage.

A relatively new innovation has been the addition of an Arts and Humanities course for the study of ancient cultures and the various arts, perhaps the very basis of our civilization. Considering certain limiting factors, the program has been proceeding quite rapidly toward its ultimate goal; the appreciation and understanding of other societies and cultures. We salute you, Mr. Paglari and collaborators, for a job well done!

Miss L. Floy Miller

Dedicated Math Team Plans Specialized Training

While she and Mr. Paglari are not dancing for the Junior Class, Miss Eleanor Radziwill, as head of the WHS math department, capably managed to make obtuse angles or sin 30^0 a little clearer for each bewildered student. As she lurked about the chalk-dusted rooms opposite Mr. Riley's office, Miss Radziwill, keys in hand, could view the results of her efforts, which resulted in the entries of three students, Robert Alward, Merrick Gray, and Andrew Tucker, into the statewide mathematics competition.

In the future, Miss Radziwill and her dedicated team hope to initiate programs in fortran programming, computers, and one to explore specialized facets of math studies to make the subject more dynamic, interesting, and a lot less painful to their many pupils.

Goal: Logical Thinking and Reasonable Conclusions

Mr. Thomas Brown
Head of Department

Mr. Charles Cinto

Mr. Lawrence Wakeford

Mr. Robert Conkey

Mr. Charles Benton

An important part of the future of the world will be the attempt of scientists to solve the problems of food, air pollution, etc. which we have inherited. Mr. Brown, head of the science department helps prepare our students to face these problems in the future. He feels that science is an important part of the education of any student, while also realizing that the sciences are only a part of the broad framework of education. The goal of the science department is to introduce the student to logical thinking. A student will be prepared to make reasonable conclusions from evidence and data presented and then examine and evaluate these conclusions.

These goals will be better realized in the near future. This year, short film loops which accented a lesson were introduced in all the sciences. They are about five minutes long and can be shown before, during or after taking up a certain subject. During the next few years, the physical science courses will be either improved or replaced. Also the biology and chemistry courses will be changed during the next two years to the process approach, where the student becomes a much more important part of his own education. All biology classes will have labs more often and most of the emphasis will be on class participation.

This summer, Mr. Wakeford will be running a course on environmental study in room 114 and the town forest. Students from grades 7-11 will be eligible and tuition is free. Last summer Mr. Brown worked on semi-conducting classes at R.P.I.

From the exacting job of architectural drawings to learning the fundamentals of home construction, the Industrial Arts Department helped train students for useful vocations following graduation. With a cloud of sawdust flowing from every window, the Rebel man provided a variety of articles, ranging from birdhouses to bars, for use on the homefront. Meanwhile, Mr. Walsh and his students experimented with a new offset camera, which allowed fast processing of printing stencils. Because of their continuous emphasis on safety and cleanliness, IAD was able to boast that there had been no fingers left lying about the shop.

Strengthening Mind, Body, and Spirit

Walpole is proud of its physical education program and its belief that the physical must find its place complementing the mind and spirit in the education of the total person. Physical education builds better youth, stronger in mind, body, and spirit, better equipped to reach higher and higher for their aspirations in life. It also develops the whole man, an individual full of zest for life, capable and desirous to serve both himself and the democratic society of which he is a part. Because of its experience, dedication, and hard work, the Walpole High School Physical Education Department has succeeded in making the gymnasium and playing field a classroom for character whether it be in gym class, intramurals, or in interscholastic athletics. Stronger youth means a stronger nation and the physical education department has and continues to make its contribution to a stronger America.

In order to round out a girl's training for a vocation or professional career, the Home Economics Department seeks to help girls develop some of the skills which will help them in the role of wife and mother, to obtain realistic concepts about family life and children, and to develop a genuine appreciation for what it means to be a woman. In addition to courses concerning cooking and sewing, courses such as Family Living are offered. During one unit on Human Behavior and Mental Health, members of the class went on a tour followed by a question and answer period led by a psychiatrist at Foxboro State Hospital. Next year a full semester course on Human Behavior will be offered as well as a greater variety of courses for home economics students.

It has often been said that the library is the heart of any educational system. At Walpole High School, the force that keeps this heart beating is Miss Emily Beattie, head of the library department, and her capable staff.

Mr. William Edwards

Peanut Butter Pudding and Shirley McDimple

Miss Beattie has brought several innovations to the library and has many more planned for future years. This year, she has added a record player with headphones so that students may listen to their favorite music while others study in peace and quiet, and a microfilm projector that allows back issues of magazines and newspapers to be stored in minimal space. For the future, Miss Beattie looks forward to a browsing room where students can find literature to fit their tastes and a study period where students will go to the library if they want to study, or to some other room if they want to talk.

Cafeteria Ladies

The custodians put in another futile year of attempting to cope with incidents ranging from an explosion of a boiler in the cafeteria containing peanut butter pudding, to Frank Duquette's debut as the star of the girls' basketball team.

A Flair for Films and Festivals

Experimentation — this is the new key word in describing the activities of the art department. The unending talent and imagination of Mr. Lazzeri's art students this year have enabled them to create their own masterpiece. This is a movie film which they wrote, acted, directed, and filmed themselves. The subject matter of the film is "Violence, Sex, and Alienation."

Another addition to Mr. L's projects is the Greek art portion of the Arts and Humanities course, new this year. The aim of this course is to unify the facts and ideas which the students have accumulated during their high school years and put them into a logical, useful context.

The music department has expanded under the leadership of Mr. Richard Dunn. Hoping to get at least one-sixth of the student body actively involved in some area of music, Mr. Dunn has encouraged everyone to join the band, the student chorus, or one of the instrumental ensembles. There are also two regular school courses through which students may join a basic understanding of music from the time of the ancient world to the present—music appreciation, and Arts and Humanities, newly innovated this year.

The Southeastern Massachusetts Audition Festival is being hosted by the Music Department of the Walpole Schools. Fifty bands and chorus groups from high schools throughout the state will come to Walpole in May to give concerts. A second activity of the Music Department is the Fine Arts Festival in which the art and music of kindergarten children through high school students will be presented.

The music department wishes to make available a wide variety of music to as many students as possible. Those with an aptitude for music should get involved. Mr. Dunn hopes to incorporate a stronger choral program, possibly with a boys' and girls' chorus.

Mr. Dunn is trying to further develop the music programs in all Walpole schools. This summer he will be working on the research and development of fine arts team-teaching for the eighth grade.

THE SOPHOMORES

"The Backstreet Journal" provided the music for the first social event of the class of 1971. The Sophomore Class Dance, "Faces", was held on Friday, May 30, 1969. As a money-making scheme, the sophomores invited the students of East and West Junior High Schools to attend.

In other attempts to increase the contents of the treasury of the youngest members of Walpole High, the sophomores have been selling monogrammed stationery and on Saturday, June 7, 1969 they held a car wash near the Police Station. The quality of the cleaning job done on the cars is uncertain but everyone had a good time.

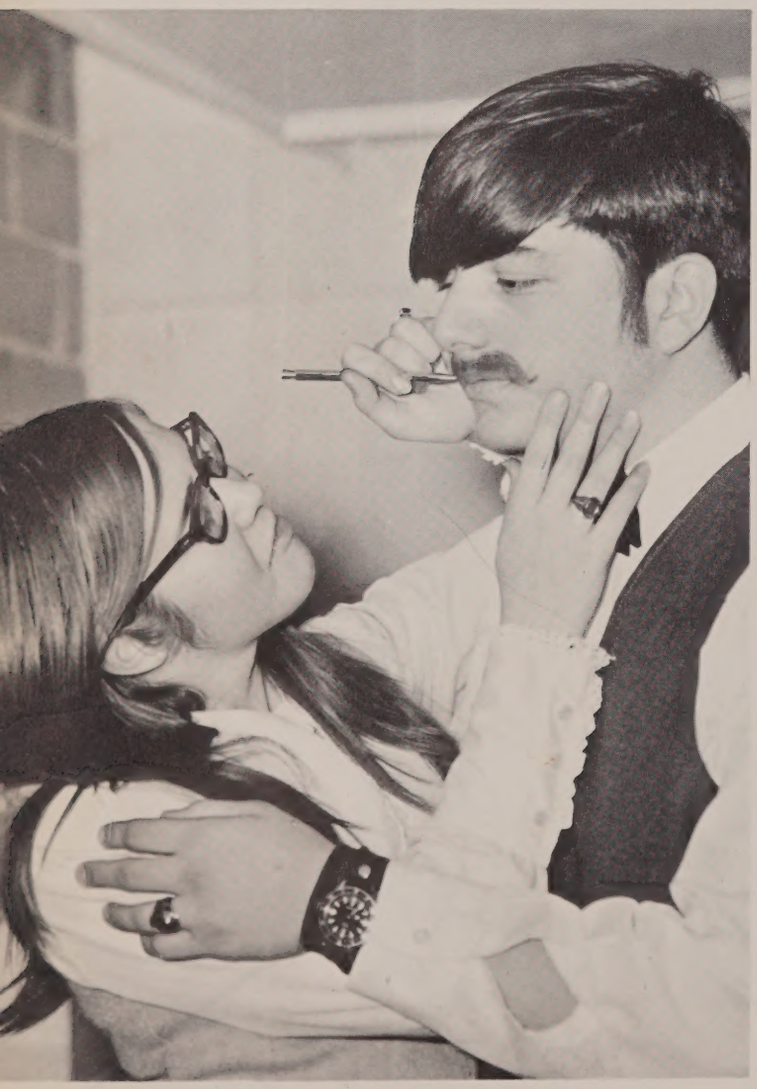
"Your Father's Moustache"

Two of the most memorable and successful social events of Walpole High this year have been presented by the Class of 1970.

On Friday, March 7, 1969, the Juniors held "Your Father's Moustache". Parents and students who filled the gymnasium were presented with beer mugs of root beer, and peanuts, and were entertained by the "Barbershoppers" of Walpole, a group of musical seminarians called "The Proud Heritage," and by the Juniors themselves.



JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS AND ADVISORS: B. Beise, Secretary, Miss Radzwill; R. Plasmati, Vice President; C. Swenson, President; N. Welch, Treasurer; Mr. Paglari.

THE JUNIORS

The theme of the evening was "The Gay Nineties", featuring moustaches, straw hats, and vest for the boys and short skirts, curly hair, and beads for the girls. John Birtwell, as emcee, provided the audience with several (bad) jokes; Carin Swenson heartily threw a pie into the face of her pursuer, Rudolph (John) "Farrell"-tino; Rick Plasmati's and Paul Garaczeski's gangsters sang and shot at each other; Romona Hamilton led a group of girls in the "Charleston", and Thomas Driscoll did a dance wearing several balloons. The evening was filled with laughter and gaiety.

An entirely different setting was experienced by the formality and beauty of the orchestra music at the Junior Prom, "The Age of Aquarius", on April 22, 1969 at the Blue Hills Country Club. Even the pouring rain did not detract from the regal atmosphere as the Juniors honored the Seniors.

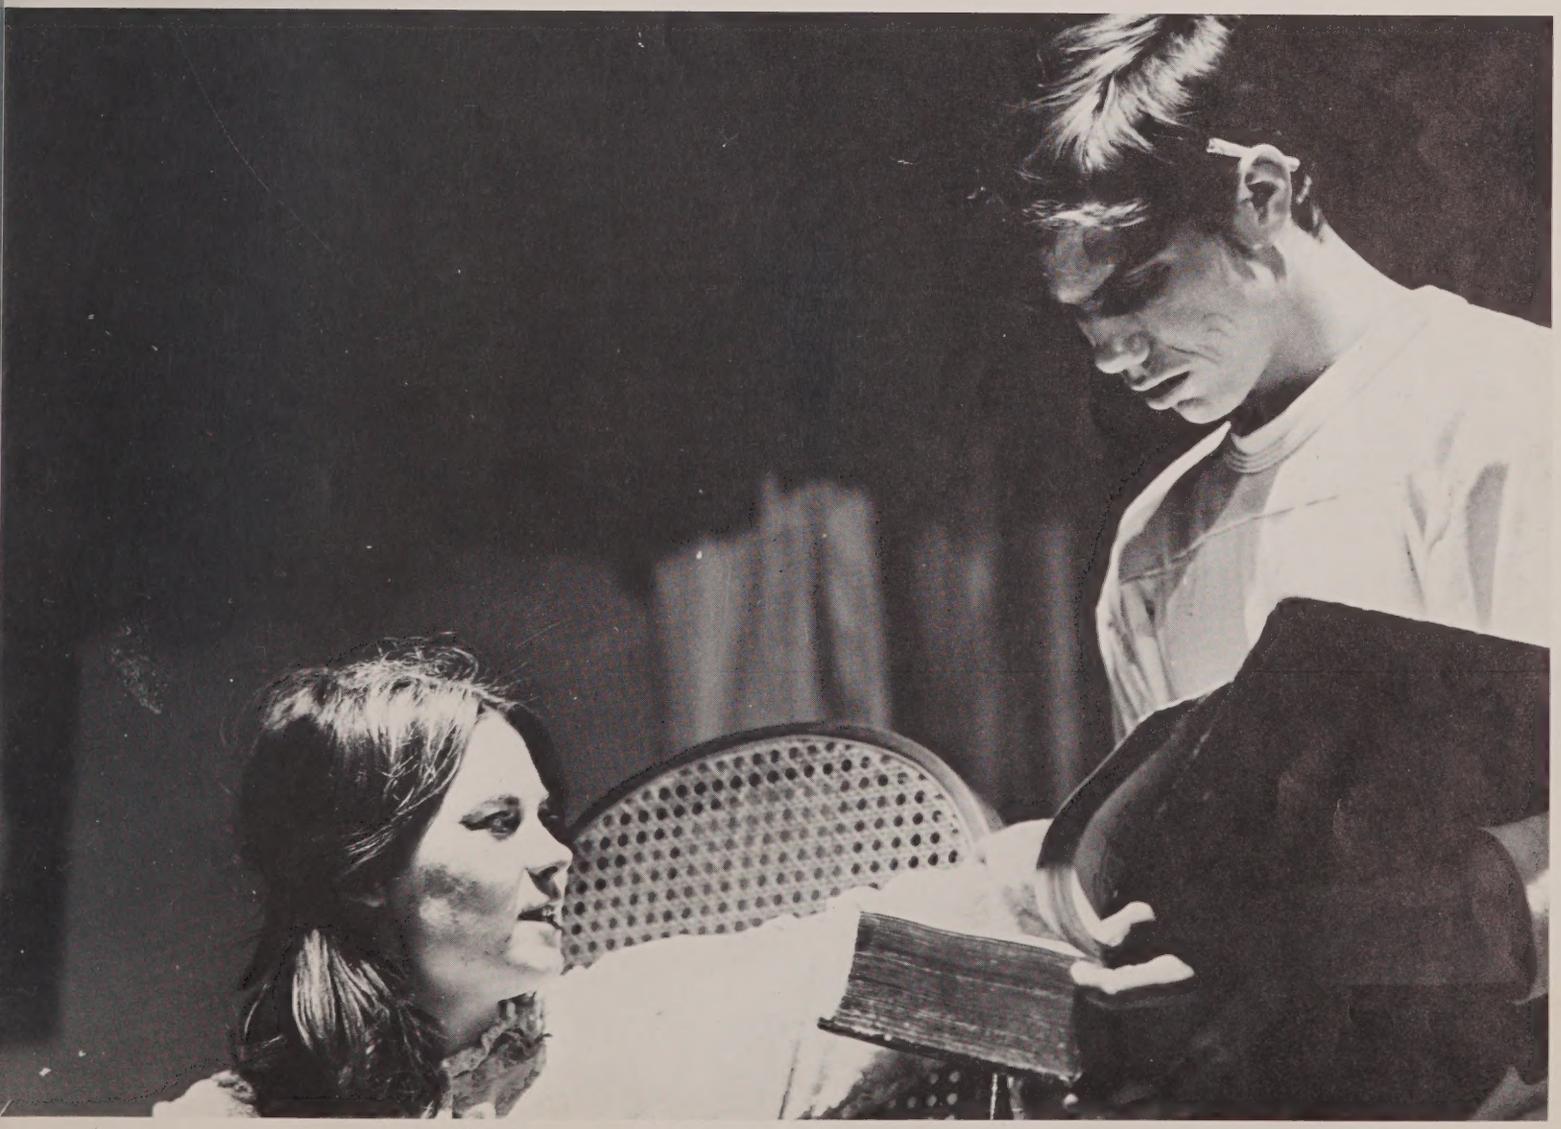
It says right here, Item No. 3462 of the dress code . . .



"No school, all schools, in Walpole . . ."

"There will be no school, all schools in the following towns: Walpole, etc." We heard that phrase so much during February, 1969, that it got to be a habit. February vacation, combined with three major snowfalls totaling 60-odd inches, added up to only seven days of school during the entire month of February. The days off were used in a variety of ways: shoveling, catching up on lost sleep, shoveling, cooking, shoveling, spending time with your girl-or-boyfriend, shoveling, making snowmen in the center of town, more shoveling, and attempting to get cars in and out of ruts and snowbanks. This was a February to remember.

Rebel Baton Squad

This year's baton squad, made up of only nine members, was the smallest in a number of years. Even so, this factor did not affect their performances in parades or at football games. These nine girls practiced hard all summer long and their performances at the rally proved this. Along with the band, directed by Mr. Dunn, and the cheerleaders, led by captain Cindy Aho, these girls tried to inspire our "Football Eleven" on to victory. It's just too bad that they never got to see themselves in a fine performance.

Captain Joyce O'Connor and Co-captains Mary O'Malley and Pat Delsignore led the squad proudly down the field at half-time.

It was a lively, spirited, and much improved Rebel football team that took the field against Bay State opponents this season. Under the new leadership of Coach John Lee, a direct import from the heart of Dixie, the Rebels really lived up to their name. After some tough losses early in the season and a few position changes, the Rebs came alive on rain-soaked and mud-infested Hollis Field where highly rated Braintree fell victim to Walpole's devastating football machine. From here on in, the Rebels chalked up four straight victories before bowing to a tough Needham eleven after a hard fought battle. The Rebels bounced back on Turkey Day as they completely outplayed and outmuscled the Spartans before the Northsiders tied it with less than two minutes left in the contest. The exciting brand of football displayed by the Rebels this year will be remembered for years to come. With no less than 8 defensive starters and a similar number of offensive stalwarts returning next season, the Rebel flag should fly high over the BSL.

CROSS COUNTRY

The temperature is hovering around 40° and the wind is blowing briskly. You are standing there jumping up and down wagering an unsuccessful battle against the goose bumps that cover your arms and legs. Bitter memories? Not for "the boys who run through the woods in their underwear" better known as the Cross Country team.

Although all of this is a part of Cross Country, as are wind sprints, time trials and long practices, they become insignificant when compared to what these boys have gained from participating in this seldom popularized sport. Distance winning requires a tremendous amount of self discipline and desire. After hours of hard work and practice, the reward comes in the meet when each boy has the satisfaction of representing his school and of crossing that finish line, whether he be first or last.

Although the Rebel harriers had a rough season and failed to win a meet, they deserve a lot of credit for never giving up. There were no stand outs on this year's team, but rather all of the boys showed about the same ability. Special recognition, however, must go to seniors Jim Murphy, Merrick Gray and Wally Duncan who completed their fourth year on the squad. With a promising group of sophomores returning, all of whom saw considerable action this year, Coach Valaitas looks to next year to better Walpole's fortunes in Cross Country.

If the 1968 Rebel soccer team could have one wish, no doubt it would be to replay the first half of their season. The prospects looked good for new head coach Bill Walsh and his senior-laden squad at the outset of the Bay State League. However, Lady Luck was not with the kickers as they suffered a disappointing first round in BSL competition. After a few position changes and some long afternoons at Bird Park, the Rebel fortunes suddenly took a turn for the better as the team began to click as they compiled a very respectable 5-1-1 record during the second round of action. High point of the season came as the Rebels outplayed and outclassed a powerful Wellesley unit who finished a strong third in league play. With most of the team graduating, next year will no doubt be a rebuilding year but with a strong JV team coming up to the varsity ranks, Walpole should hold its own in the tough BSL circuit.

The girls at Walpole have always played field hockey with a great deal of enthusiasm and a tremendous desire to win. This desire led 16 junior and senior girls to the Merestead Hockey Camp in Vermont, for a week of pre-season conditioning, stickwork, and game play under some of the top international coaches. It was also at Merestead that they picked up the nickname, "Porkers", that was their battlecry at every game.

By the time the first game came the girls were in top condition. Led by co-captains Marcia Bissell and Janna Lambine, Walpole opened its season with an easy 3-0 win over Framingham North.

After one loss to the Needham squad, the Porkers won every game in the rest of the season. Against Natick Marcia Bissell scored six of her team's seven goals, insuring for her the position of high scorer.

The highlight of the season came in the last game against Wellesley, a team previously undefeated for two years. The game was a tremendous team victory for Walpole as every girl played superbly. It marked the end of a very successful season. Porkers rejoice!

The girls' basketball team started their season with a solid victory over Milton. From here, however, the team's season became frustrating, as tough competition put Walpole down all but three times. An exciting, tension-filled game against Framingham North was lost only in the last few minutes of the game. The high point of the season came when both varsity and J.V. teams beat Norwood.

Co-captains Marcia Bissell and Denise Tetreault led the Girl Rebels both in scoring and in spirit.

Second Round Norwood and Dedham

Steve Lord had a monumental job on his hands when he took over head coaching duties for the Rebel courtmen this season. With only two players with previous varsity experience returning and nary a man over 6' 2", the Rebels seemed doomed at the out-set of the campaign. However, long practice sessions in the evening, desire and pride sustained the Rebels throughout the season as they never said "no" to a ballgame until the final buzzer. High water marks for the Rebels were the brilliant come from behind victory over Dedham and the exciting over-time contest with Norwood. In this game the hope for the future shone for the Rebels as the underclassmen engineered the near upset while the seniors were saddled with fouls. With a good JV squad moving up into the varsity ranks and two good freshman teams moving to Rebel land next year should see a rejuvenation of basketball fortunes with the Tech Tourney the long-range goal.

Won 10 Lost 6 Tied 2

It was a year of ups and downs for the 1968-1969 Rebel ice squad. Inconsistency and lack of experience were the culprits that kept the Rebels from enjoying a better season. However, the boys fought hard and long under veteran coach Charlie Cinto to earn their 10-6-2 record. The high point of the season was the tremendous victory over Needham who eventually went on to win the state title. The Rebels were really flying high on that Saturday night and it was evident as they skated rings around the stunned Rockets. The hitherto tough Needham defense and high-flying offense were stymied by an all-out team effort on the part of the Rebs. With only two starters from this year's team graduating and a host of JVees, who compiled a tremendous 19-1-2 record, fighting for varsity positions, next year's hockey fans should see more hockey of this year's Needham-Walpole caliber.

Track Team Enjoys Successful Season

Quality rather than quantity was the watchword for the 1968-1969 winter track team. Under the leadership of Coach Lee, eighteen boys worked hard and long to earn a 5-5 record in the Tri-County League. Few will forget this year's team who on any winter afternoon could be heard running in the attic over the second floor of section B. And if by chance, you happened to be staying after school for your history teacher, their presence was obvious by the cracks in the ceiling. Others will remember the "crazy kids" who could be seen running around the building in 30 degree weather, clad only in gym suits. However, what will be most remembered is the spirit with which this mere handful of dedicated young men represented their school in a seldom popularized sport. With a good nucleus returning next year and a little seasoning that comes naturally with experience, the Rebel track men should enjoy another good season in 1969-1970.

One of the brighter spots on the winter sports scene in Rebelland this year was the wrestling team. Under freshman coach Bill Wassell, the grapplers recorded a 7-3 slate which earned them a fourth place finish in the Bay State League. This year's team was strong in all departments with four seniors leading a host of underclassmen along the victory trail. Highlight of the season was the romp over arch-rival Needham coached by former Walpole grappling leader Tom Walsh. With 11 varsity wrestlers returning next season and a host of JVees battling for varsity berths, Coach Wassell should send a strong delegation to the mat wars next year.

Tremendous Season

"Fluke" is confident of victory.

The reward for four years of hard work, practice, and dedication came to one Walpole wrestler this year. Co-Captain Bob Fluckiger became the first boy in the history of Walpole High to win a state wrestling title. "Fluke", as he is affectionately known to his friends, defeated all opponents on the road to the 115 pound title. The way was not easy for the Fluke as he wrestled some tough matches during his four year mat career at the Hilltop. His overall four-year record was 45-5. The honor that Bob earned for himself and his school will never be forgotten as long as the Rebel flag flies high over Walpole. Congratulations to a fine athlete and a fine young man.

What looked at first to be a banner year for the Rebel baseball nine turned out to be a frustrating season for all concerned. The Rebels won 3 of their first 5 starts and seemed to be improving with every game. Then, disaster struck as catcher Larry Collins fractured his collarbone and was sidelined for the season. After this the pitching trailed off and other injuries forced position changes in almost every game. However, as is the trademark of all Rebel teams, the boys never gave up. They almost pulled the upset of the year just before the season ended as they nearly thwarted tourney-bound Norwood on the latter's home field. Kev Cunnane pitched a beautiful ball game and deserved the win, but once again Lady Luck was not in the Rebel camp as they lost the game with two gone in the ninth. Special recognition must go to Ron Lee who was probably the best infielder in the league this season.

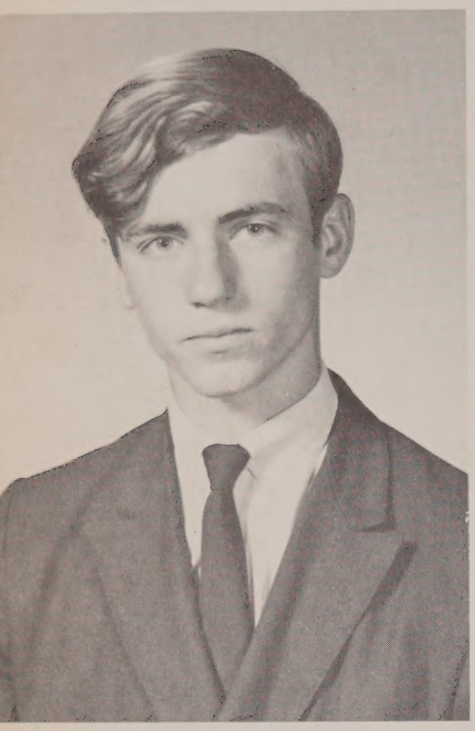
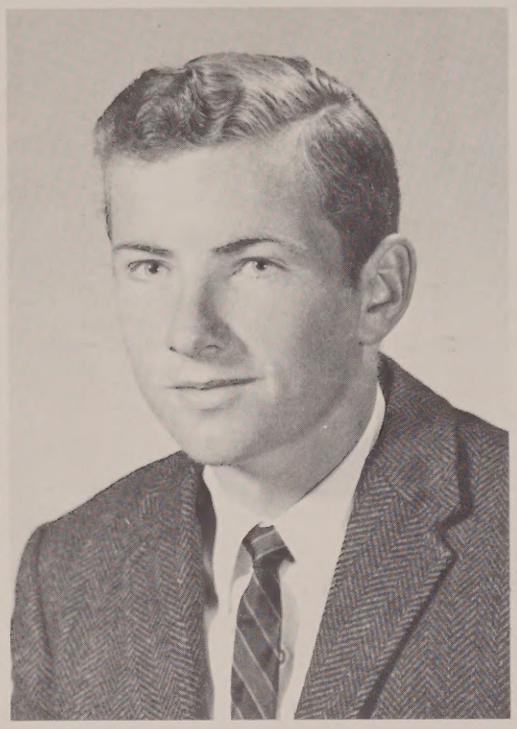
Golf Team Enjoys Another Successful





SENIOR TEAM MEMBERS — J. Farrell and G. Gerrish.

As it has for many years, the Rebel golf team finished the season with the best record of all Spring teams. Under the direction of Coach Wassell and Senior co-captains John Farrell and Greg Gerrish, five underclassmen made their way down the fairways and across the greens of the BSL. By the time the last putt was made on nine and the trip back to the clubhouse begun, the boys had compiled a fine 5-3-1 record. The boys played fine golf this Spring and had a lot of fun while representing the school. With five lettermen returning, all of whom gained valuable experience; some practice this summer; and a few more boys to complete the squad; the 1970 golf team should ace the courses.

There are two prerequisites for a winning track team — outstanding individuals and team depth. This year's Rebel track team scored well on the first count but as in previous years failed miserably on the second. Throughout the season the Rebels were continually frustrated in their attempts to bring home a victory. Two boys on this year's team will be remembered, however, because of individual accomplishments. George Hossfield and Captain John Kateon are now school record holders in the javelin and discus throws respectively. Both performances came in the Framingham South meet which the team lost only because we lost the relay. Congratulations to these boys for their fine accomplishments. Next year the Rebels hope to get back into the swing of things with many underclassmen having progressed well in their events this year.

The tennis team was another band of Rebels that suffered at the hands of BSL competition this spring. It was lack of consistency rather than lack of ability that spelled doom for the Rebel netmen. All of the boys played well at some point during the season but only three times did the whole team enjoy a good day. The big wins were the two victories over arch-rival Norwood. Coach Wendler will miss the five seniors who backboned this year's squad particularly the tri-captains John Robinson, Merrick Gray, and Myron Okubo who this year completed their fourth year of tennis at Walpole High. A 5-3 RECORD WITH STEEL, WOOD, AND STRING

With a flash of steel rackets, a lazy lob of those sparkling white balls, and a mere three pre-season practices limited by flooded courts and boys' matches, the girls' tennis team rolled off three straight victories. Although there appeared to be a mid-season psychological problem (Wellesley, Needham, and Braintree), the marathon matches and tennis antics provided by one player along the train tracks rallied the team onward. The best advice from the team is to hold your racket firmly and throw the ball over the net to make sure the server gets the ball.

Miss Susan Allen's varsity softball team has survived another season of the "every-other-year slump." A record of two wins and five losses does not do justice, however, to the girls' enthusiasm and effort in playing. The coach had a difficult challenge in trying to develop to the fullest the playing savvy and ball-handling technique of the fielders. Batting in general was good. Spirits were always high; love of the game enabled the girls to win modestly and yet accept a lost game as true sportswomen.

This season seemed to bear out the traditional varsity slogan: We don't win many games but we sure have fun at practice. The coach looks forward to a new year when minus only two seniors, at first and third base, the team will hopefully dominate the league—using the experience of the remaining fielders and the skill of several junior varsity players.

Recruited from the ranks of the teachers' room, the new junior varsity coach, Miss Anderson, had developed her team into the winners that they are. A 5 and 1 league record bears this out. The J.V. players' attitude and know-how has enabled them to win by such fantastic scores as 43 to 3 and 17 to 1.

Eurythmics

On April 9, 1969, Walpole High School presented to a standing-room-only crowd its first annual gymnastic show entitled Eurythmics (graceful movement).

Included in the show were such acts as a tumbling sequence, parallel and uneven bars, the high bar, a pyramid act, and folk dance group, all climaxed by the spectacular tableaux. A difficult triple balance group consisted of Frances Carver, Dave Checchi, and Paul Garbaceski. Other outstanding performers included Donna Ritcey, Ed McDavitt, Donna Goodwin, Sara Carlson, and Bob Dolan, but only through the combined efforts of all who participated was the show such a complete success, and the start of an annual tradition.

Newspaper, Creative Writing Club

Hindered by organizational problems and handicaps in meeting deadlines, Walpole High's newspaper The Rebelaire, was again unable to establish a dependable schedule for publication.

Working without financial assistance of any type, issues were few and far between; however, under the capable direction of Mr. Forrester and the fine effort made by a dedicated few, The Rebelaire published letters from concerned readers and printed stories on the dress code committee, building evaluation, and the 18 x 72 movement.

Near the end of the year, an underground newspaper, Mandella, brought a flair of controversy to its usually subdued copy, which brought mixed reactions from the faculty, administration, and student body.

When the presses stopped in June, The '69 Rebelaire completed its second season, a year older and hopefully a lot wiser.

New this year, the Creative Writing classes, under the competent guidance of Mrs. Heather Shih, endeavored to compile their numerous literary accomplishments into a new school magazine called Patterns. The first edition published in March proved to be a great success displaying tremendous originality and potential for next year.

A creative cover for our first edition.

The Drama Club

Take a successful Broadway play, a creative, demanding director and a group of inexperienced but willing adolescent thespians, and the result may not be smashing, but certainly interesting. The turn-out for tryouts for Night Must Fall in November was, as usual, small but select. After weeks of delayed and often ludicrous rehearsals, a change in character from Tom Johnson to Tom Romanowitz, the group presented their masterpiece for a limited number of performances, opening and closing on February 20.

While Wally warmed up by doing push-ups, the team did manage to win a number of rounds, and gained valuable experience for the coming season.

The Math Club consisted of a few afternoons in which a few devoted enthusiasts practiced special math problems from geometry to algebra to basic arithmetic to prepare for the monthly interscholastic math contests. The ski club increased their activities this year as they first observed skiing films to learn about and marvel at the various forms and techniques of skiing. They then decided to put theory into practice by making weekend trips to Mount Ascutney and Pico Peak, Vermont. The gusty winds and bright sunshine added to the enjoyment of the weekends, both on and off the slopes.

Through the red flags, over the hills, and down the slopes, skied the members of the newly-organized varsity ski team. In the past, competitive skiing was limited to intramurals. With all the meets at the Blue Hills in Milton, the team traveled hundreds of miles on the road and on the slopes. One of the keys to a rather good first year was the outdoor conditioning exercises prior to the skiing season.

For being an unofficial club, without officers, dues, or organization, the German Club is one of the most interesting and culturally active groups in the school. Their fearless leader, Miss Soderberg, who is sometimes at odds with the administration over her personal participation in the students' activities, manages to come up with exciting and different programs almost every month. The biggest project was, of course, the trip to Germany last summer. To say the least, it changed the lives and ideas of all who were fortunate enough to go. The Christmas party, chez Mlle. Soderberg in Boston, has become an annual thing. The subway was excellent for caroling, since it was warm, dry, and echoed grandly. For those students interested in German drama, tickets to works presented at Harvard by Bertolt Brecht and Gunther Grass were made available. Ever tasted beer soup? As an entree, it served nicely at their German supper, where wurst and sauerkraut, kartoffelnsaket, and German chocolate cake held forth. Efforts at bringing a group of German students to Walpole this summer at first seemed futile, but proved later successful. Six "Deutschen" will be flying to Boston in August, to stay with Walpolians and learn what American people (not the tourists) are like. Miss Soderberg, who will be at Walpole High next year, is already planning for a studies program with their "adopted" prisoner, Karl Eisen. What is a German club? Wundebar!

This year the Spanish Club offered a fabulous opportunity to Walpole High School students in the form of summer study and travel in both Spain and Mexico. The trip to Spain will include four weeks of summer school at the University of Santiago, and excursions to the Prado Art Gallery, Seville, a bullfight, the Mediterranean Sea, and an optional visit to Tangiers, Africa, among other places of interest. A similar program has been planned for the trip to Mexico.

A Russian Club of fifteen members was selected last fall from an initial turnout of over forty candidates. Under the qualified direction of Miss Arlin, these students now numbering three have met twice weekly throughout the school year to study the rudiments of the Russian language. The highlight of the year was the showing of slides taken in Russia. The students who completed the year can truthfully boast of having participated in an interesting and valuable program.

The outside temperature is 110° F., the barometric pressure is 433 and rising, the humidity is -43%. The weather outside is sunny with heavy rain. And thus concludes the high school weather report.

Broken projector? Wrong screen? Spliced film? Need a slide projector? Try someone in A-V. The film may be a week overdue, but at least you can see the first and last reels. And don't forget those famous "Sea Around Us" and "Cubs of Yellowstone Park" movies.

Red lights, blue lights, white lights, or whatever—the stage crew sends a multitude of colors and sounds onto the assembly stage. This year's talent show especially challenged their lighting and technical skills.

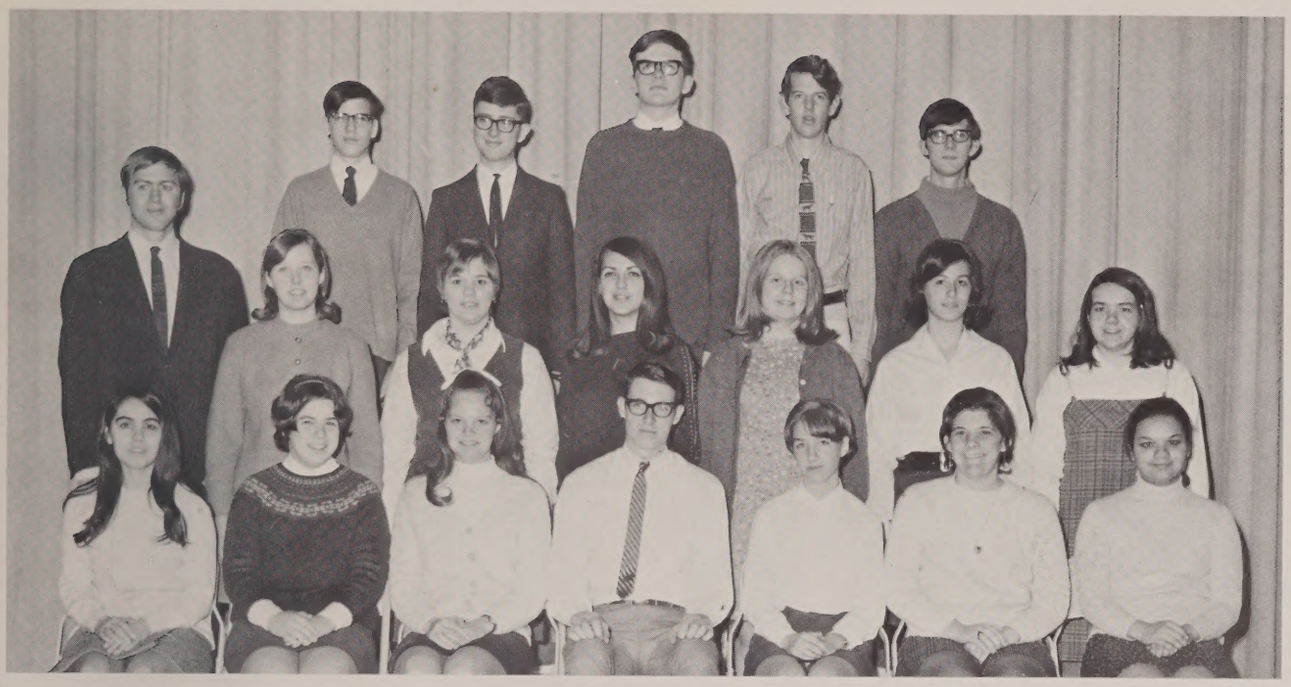
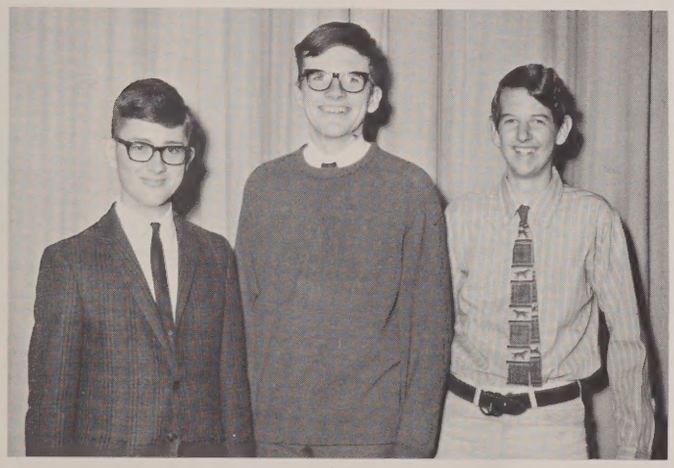
The intrepid 30-piece Rebel Marching Band, under the spirited direction of Mr. Richard B. Dunn, started the year off with the sound of "Dixie" after each score at every football game, marching at half-time and almost out-doing the cheerleaders in promoting school spirit. Participation in the Walpole Christmas Parade, the Music Festival Parade, and in the Village Fair Flag Day Parade capped a busy first season as a fully independent band.

CONCERT BAND

The Concert Band, a separate organization, and two affiliated ensembles, the Clarinet Quintet and the Brass Ensemble, were busy this year playing concerts at Christmas and in the spring, for the WTA, and at graduation. Small but growing, these groups continue to improve both in size and musical quality.



CHORUS: FRONT ROW: M. Farinacci, J. McDonald, G. Frieswick, G. Bryant, C. Rose, M. Mathers, L. Bianco. MIDDLE ROW: Mr. Dunn, P. Brown, P. Geraghty, V. Smith, K. Geraghty, G. Packard, B. Dill. BACK ROW: A. Rafuse, W. Deckel, J. Farrell, P. Haagens, C. Cyr.



Members of S. E. Massachusetts Bandmasters Chorus: Wallace Deckel (2nd tenor), John Farrell (2nd tenor), Peter Haagens (2nd bass).

Members of S. E. Massachusetts Bandmasters Band: Allan Rafuse (1st clarinet), Warren Yetman (1st clarinet), Paul Garbaczeski (sousaphone).

CHORUS

Proving that best things do come in small packages, this year's chorus enjoyed two very successful concerts and an excellent first year performance at the Southeastern Mass. Music Audition Festival; all of which went to prove that the chorus, limited in numbers though it is, was a fine singing group.

The Rebel Marching Band and Baton Squad, the Chorus, the Concert Band, the Brass Ensemble, and the Clarinet Quintet topped off their year by hosting the 50-town Southeastern Massachusetts Music Festival on May 10, 1969. Sixty-nine high school groups auditioned in Walpole in the morning, and twenty-two bands paraded through the town in the afternoon, leaving Walpole with perhaps the largest event ever to occur here.

With the advent of student cinematography in schools throughout the United States, Walpole High School has this year initiated a film-making club. Counseled by Mr. Alfred Lazzeri, and aided by the experience of Miss Marion O'Neil, the elementary school art teacher, the members of the club have produced a film entitled Pink Flatts. It contains cartoon characters and geometrical objects in a series of short stories put together through improvisation. Another experimental movie was made by painting streaks of color directly onto the film, and the viewer is bombarded by the unexpected color and the blurring pigments as they seem to dance. A print of the films has been sent to the archives of the National Film Cooperative for student films.

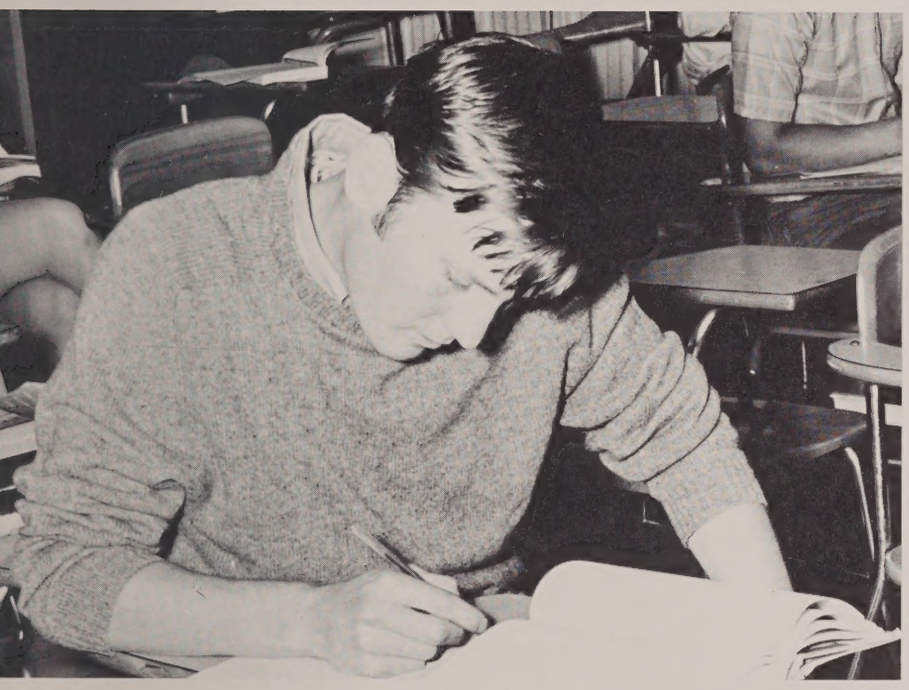
The Class of 1969



HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1969

FRESHMAN YEAR

September of 1965 brought to Walpole High School a class which could be compared to none before it. This was the rebel class of 1969, and in the next four years it was destined to turn the school upside down. It was soon obvious to our teachers that we were going to leave our mark; they learned a lot from us that year.

In order to carry our our plans for reshaping Walpole High, we had to choose as officers those best suited for the task. They were Dave Blais, president; Susan Bourne, vice-president; Kenny Pickener, treasurer; and Cindy Aho, secretary.

The big event of the year was our class dance, "Kartoon Karnival." Although our class was full of swingers, less than fifty of them made it to the dance. This way, we rebels reasoned, we could have the challenge of starting our sophomore year in debt.

As our freshman year came to a close, Walpole High was not the same; the action, however, was just beginning.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

When the fall of '66 rolled around, we were prepared to continue our redevelopment program. Among the innovations was to be an outdoor dance in the spring.

While this was a building year for Walpole sports, the debut of our athletes foretold great things for the future.

As our officers for our second year we elected Bill Hinchey, president; Wally Duncan, vice-president; Kenny Pickener, treasurer, and Melinda McCord, secretary.

We were at our best in May when a disagreement as to the details of our class dance prompted us to stage a sit-down strike in the corridor. An all day strike across the street from the school followed the next day. Conveniently, a group showed up and provided music for our dance. No one gets in the way of the rebel class of '69!

By the end of our sophomore year one thing was evident: the class of '69 was the greatest, and with us at the helm for the next two years, Walpole High would be a new, different, and far more exciting place.

Melinda McCord
Secretary, 1966-68

JUNIOR YEAR

Now we had attained the coveted status of upperclassmen. We no longer had to prove anything—we were tops and that was it. Among the highlights of our junior year were the painting of a rebel flag on Dedham High School, and a visit one night by an unidentified assailant who ransacked our lockers and sprayed the books with a mysterious foamy substance. Indeed, with the '69 rebels upperclassmen, anything could happen.

With the same officers as the previous year, we improved our financial condition greatly. We held two successful car washes, and a dance (indoors this time) which also proved highly successful.

In April, we honored the seniors with our prom, The Impossible Dream. None of us will ever forget that wonderful evening, for we all realized our own special dreams that night.

Thus, with three years under our belts, we had made Walpole High a more exciting place to go to school. Our senior year, however, still lay ahead. What would we try next?

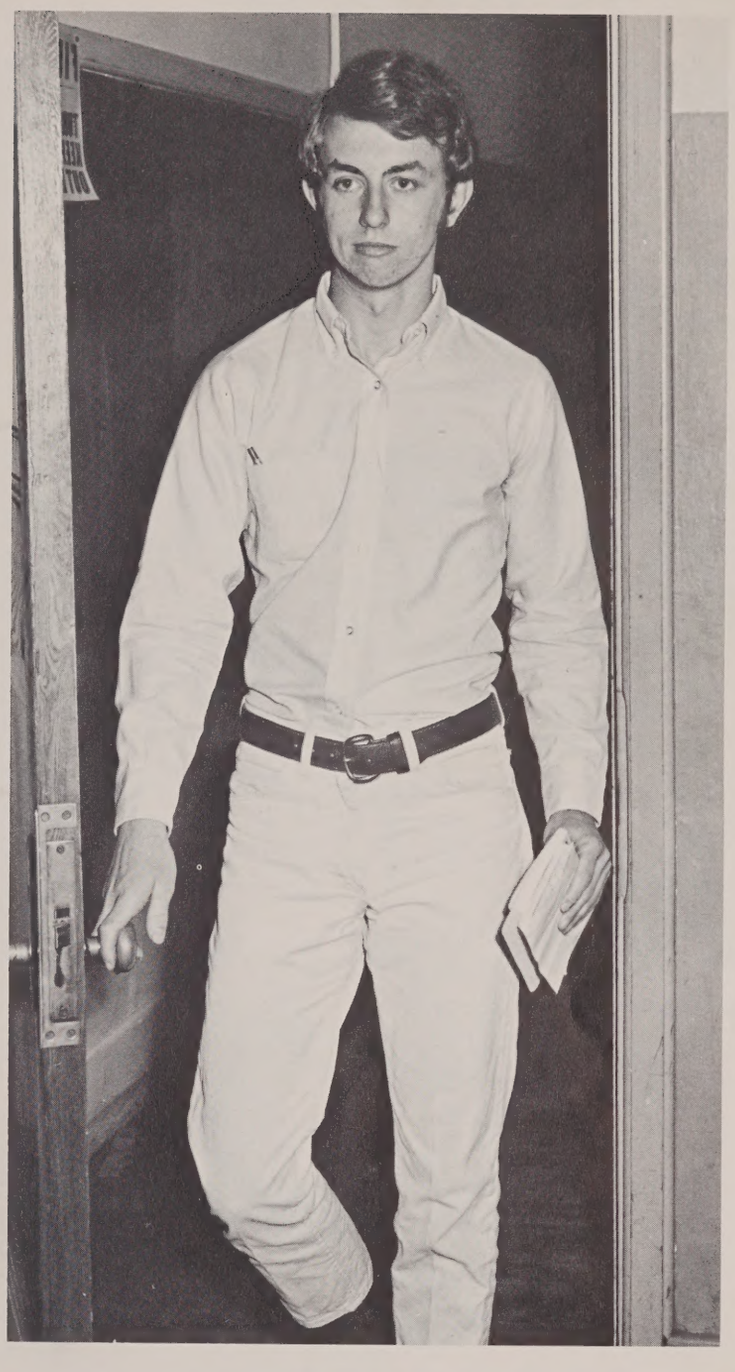
Dave Blais
President, 1965-66

SENIOR YEAR

At last, September 1968 was here. The '69 rebels were seniors, and it just figured that change was bound to come. It was an active year from the start; an eager new football coach with a southern drawl greeted our gridsters in August, and when school opened there was a feeling that something was going to happen! This belief was fulfilled one early fall day when a pressure cooker exploded and shot chocolate pudding on the floor, the ceiling, and the courageous cafeteria workers.

Something was brewing on the football field, too. While junior backs grabbed the headlines, mighty senior rebels anchored the line as Walpole's gridsters marched on to the best season in a decade. Appropriately, the '69 rebels climaxed their careers by ushering in what will hopefully be a bright new era for Walpole football.

The '69 rebels were active in other pursuits, also. In the fall a group of seniors came before the Student Council with a move for a revised dress code. The Council went to work on this project, and after long months of discussion and debate a liberalized code based on individual good taste was agreed upon. This accomplishment serves as a fitting finale for the class of 1969—which, throughout its four years, came, saw, and conquered.



Wally Duncan
Vice-president, 1965-69

Donna Walker
Secretary, 1968-69

Kathy White Is Miss Walpole High

The Autumn Queen Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, was held October 26, 1968. Five deserving senior girls, Cynthia Aho, Ruth Lanier, Ethel Langmead, Joyce O'Connor, and Kathleen White, were chosen to compete for the title of Miss Walpole High, our Autumn Queen. Everyone anxiously awaited the voting results and everyone was delighted to hear that Miss Walpole High 1968-1969 would be Miss Kathy White. Kathy, tearful but radiant, reigned over a successful dance, a victorious Homecoming on November 2, and the best year ever, 1969.

FINALISTS: C. Aho, J. O'Connor, E. Langmead, R. Lanier, K. White. ESCORTS: D. Blais, D. Davis, F. Campbell, W. Duncan, W. Hinchey.

Sandy Carberry, Queen of "Aquarius"

It was the dawning of the "Age of Aquarius." In five dimensions the class of 1970 honored the seniors at the Junior Prom, on a rainy Tuesday, April 22, 1969, at the Blue Hills Country Club in Canton. Dinner was served promptly at seven to begin an evening which would hold many memories. While a puzzled Frank Campbell was trying to determine what a "capon" was, finally deciding it must be on the end of Massachusetts, Don Ahearn and his band played music to please all. The receiving line was long but handled well by competent junior ushers. And we were all honored by the presence of Bobby Orr disguised as Paul Hurley.

Later in the night the Grand March was held, directed by Richard Plasmati, who had everyone wondering which way they were really supposed to turn. Larry McDavitt highlighted the evening with one of his famous bird calls; but the real highlight was the selection of our Prom Queen. Eight senior girls, Judy Beckler, Sandra Carberry, Joan Hunter, Lee Lehto, Joyce O'Connor, Gail Trenholm, Donna Walker, and Kathi White were chosen to compete for the honor. We were all delighted when Mr. Paglari announced the Queen to be Sandy Carberry.

Meanwhile, our honored guests, Mr. Pickener and Mr. Waler, transistor in hand, maintained a constant vigil on the Bruins, who were playing Montreal in the Stanley Cup playoffs for all tuxedoed sports fans.

As the strains of the last song faded, we exchanged "goodbyes" contently but a little sadly, in the knowledge that the "Age of Aquarius" had passed and the Bruins had lost number five.

The Seniors Present . . .

The glare of the lights, the smell of the greasepaint, the roar of the crowd . . . the Senior Class Play of 1969! "Come Over To Our House" was the play. Walpole High's auditorium painstakingly transformed into a living room complete with balcony was the setting.

Carrie (Jill Silvi) passes Mr. Gottschalk (Frank Campbell) his leopard skin pajamas.

The play was performed brilliantly two successive nights by the players who uttered such time enduring lines as, "Hey, Hollywood, How'd you like to go to sister?" Class Night 1969 followed the tradition of the Class of 1969 in not being traditional. The will was read by several talented members of the class, costumed in varied unusual outfits to liven things up. Among the many awards presented were those honoring athletic and academic achievements. The final part of the program was devoted to the presentation of a skit, "Timely Trips." A group of students in the year 3069 returned, by means of a rather interesting Time Machine, to Walpole High, 1969, and satirical fun was made of Miss Beatty's library, the cafeteria food, and the school as a whole, providing amusement for all. Finally, the 1969 Rebel was officially dedicated to Mrs. Joanne Spillane, and her gift was graciously accepted by Mr. Peter Paglari in her absence. The evening, of course, could not have been complete without a Larry McDavitt birdcall!

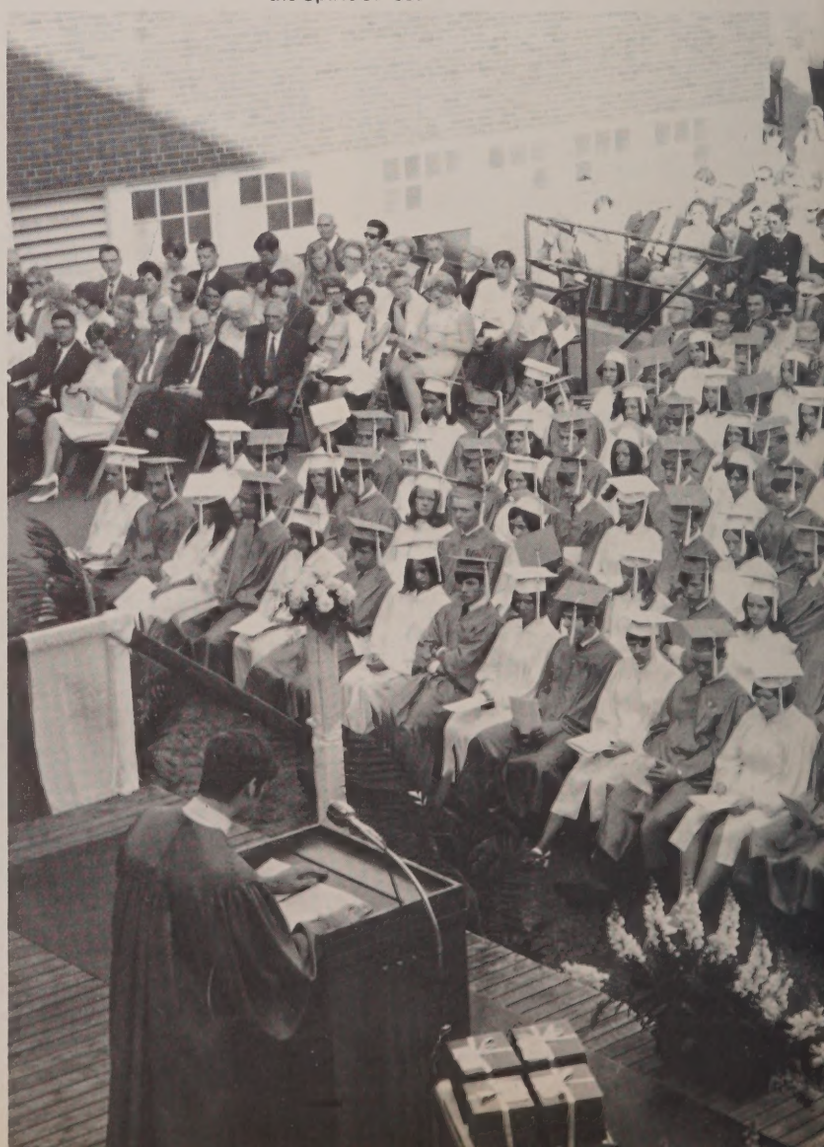
President Hinchey gives a memorable rendition of the Spirit of '69.

June 10, 1969, could not have been a more perfect day for graduation. The Class of 1969 again broke tradition when President Bill Hinchey presented the Class Gift to Carin Swenson, Junior Class President. The Seniors had decided to contribute to the Committee of Responsibility, an organization concerned with bringing burned and deformed Vietnamese children to the U.S. where they can get proper medical care not available in South Vietnamese hospitals. After Bill's memorable speech, better than average honor essays concerning various aspects of communication were given by Robert Alward, Cathy Beise, Jeanne Clinton, and Andrew Tucker. School Committee Chairman Mr. James Driscoll as usual expressed his views quite eloquently before handing out the diplomas. Finally this long-awaited event of graduation was concluded with the awarding of various scholarships. The Impossible Dream had become reality for the graduating class of 1969.

Mr. Stacy reads while Mr. Driscoll congratulates.



A time to remember.

Before you accept that first job . . .

Look over your employer as carefully as he does you

What's the Company like anyway? Would I be proud to work there? Reputation for square dealing with employees? Pleasant surroundings?

Will I be working with others my own age? Are they friendly? Do they socialize after hours?

Will the boss be reasonable? Appreciate good, hard work, but won't explode if I make a mistake?

Will I make a decent week's pay? Have a chance for raises, advancement, more responsibility? How about fringe benefits?

Is the work challenging? I had what it takes to get through high school. Will they give me a chance to use my brains?

Note: Many young men and women in this area can answer "Yes" to these questions. They work for New England Telephone.
